

FOLLOW-HOME SAFETY TIPS FROM MOORE PROTECTION

Follow-home criminals take advantage of us when we are least expecting it. But, you don't have to be a victim. Follow these tips from Moore Protection to make yourself less vulnerable to follow-home crime.

- Always be aware of your surroundings while driving, and frequently check your rearview mirror to make sure no one is following you.
- If you are being followed, do not drive to your home; instead continue driving to the nearest police or fire station. If you are not sure where these facilities are, drive to a public area (e.g., restaurant or grocery store) and call 911 for assistance.
- While being followed, try to memorize an accurate and detailed vehicle description (color, make of car, 2-door, tinted windows, etc.), and if you can, a license plate number. Report your information to the police.
- Try to avoid wearing expensive jewelry or watches in public or that can be seen while driving. A number of follow-homes are believed to have been a result of these eye-catching items.
- Have keys available to either jump into your car if someone approaches you or to enter your home with.
- Always trust your instincts. If someone seems unusual, it probably means there is something going on.
